Legislature is Getting Down to Its Active Work

Deluge of Bills Covering Nearly All of the Eighteen Subjects in Kilby's Call Greets the Solons

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-Decatur Daily.)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 5.—Cereal beverages will not be sold in Alabama, if the House ways and Means Committee has its way, by vote of 9 to 7. Today the committee voted to report the bill adversely at the session, which will begin at three o'clock.

This vote came after Dr. Brooks Lawrence, Supt. of Anti-Saloon league and Fred M. Jackson, of Birmingham, had delivered addresses in opposition to the measure and Edgar Clarkson of Tuscaloosa and Representative E. H. Long, of Sumter, had made speeches in support of the measure.

All committees of both houses which were assigned bills Tuesday were busy throughout Wednesday morning in an effort to report as many as possible during the afternoon.

The senate committee on constitution and constitutional amendments this afternoon voted to make favorable report on bill submitting Mobile Port amendment to voters again at next general election. City Commissioner Harry T. Hartwell and Senator Jno. Craft made talks on support favorable report, only Senator Evans of Hale voted against the bill.

House ways and means committee voted a favorable report on bill appropriating fifty thousand dollars for continuation construction work at Girls' Training School. Big majority of administration measures submitted to this committee held up for further consideration.

It took opponents of laws now on the statute books only a few minutes after the legislature convened at noon Tuesday to start legal movements in an effort to repeal some of the laws, including the state budget commission, the law enforcement department and the sections of the state revenue law which create the county tax adjusters.

They also submitted a resolution calling for a full report of the state highway department on the use of the funds appropriated for highway construction. This resolution was offered by J. A. Carley of Coffee, who proposed the immediate consideration, but the house failed to give the four-fifths vote required by the rules of the house and S. A. Lynne, speaker of the house, referred the resolution to the rules committee.

Thomas E. Orr, representative from Marshall county and a member of the highway commission, said there was no reason why this information should not be given to the legislature, but the resolution was unnecessary as a full report would be submitted.

When Mr. Long of Butler failed in a motion to suspend the rules for the immediate consideration of the resolution he told the members of the house he did not see why any person should vote against it and that he believed the legislators should have a full report on the work of the highway department in order that they might give the proper consideration to the highway legislation, including the twenty-five million dollar highway bill.

He warned the house that if the members do not furnish full information to the voters, the highway bond issue "will have a rock road to travel when it is submitted to the voters."

Representative Green called the attention of the house to the fact that a report of the work of the highway department had already been prepared and delivered to the legislators for their information.

The first bill which went into the records of the house called for an appropriation of one hundred thousand dollars or such part of it as will be necessary for expenses of the special session. It was introduced by Mr. Partridge of Franklin.

All administration bills proposed in the call for the session were introduced during the day with the exception of the measures regarding highway construction. These bills are ready but will be gone over by members of the house and senate committees before they are introduced in order that amendments may be made in advance.

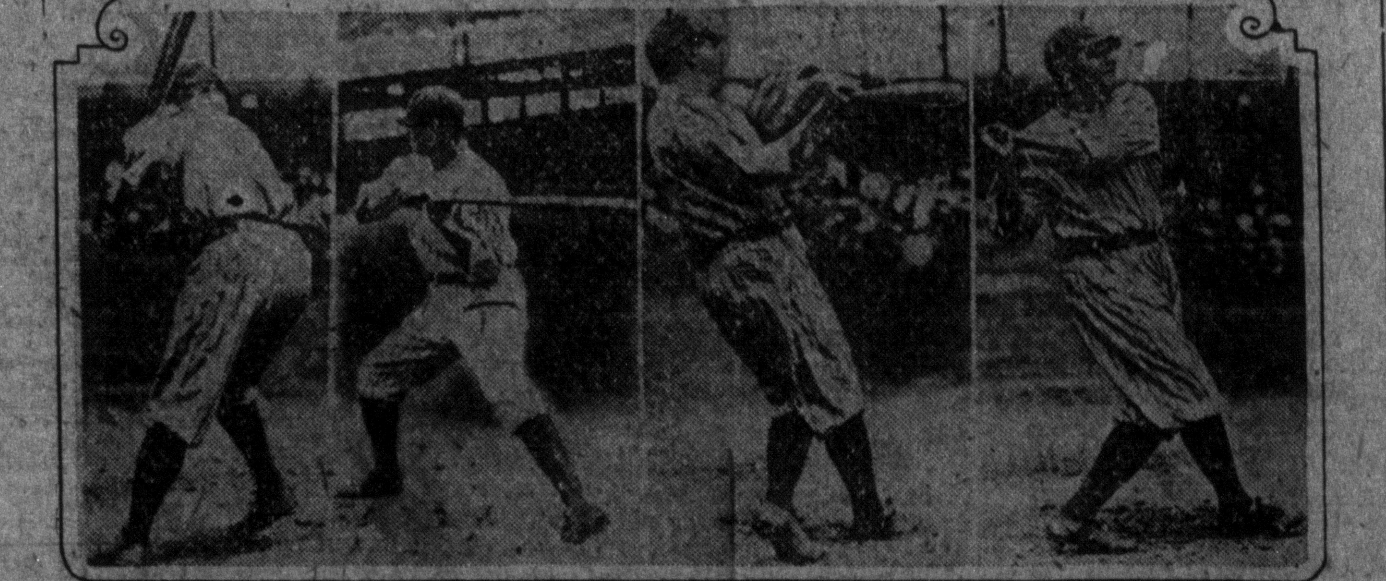

Included in the list of bills proposed in the call were those making boycotting and blacklisting a felony, prohibiting the operation of any business establishment on Sunday except drug stores and limiting them to the sale of necessities and preventing absolutely the operation of motion picture shows and baseball games on Sunday; requiring cities and towns to provide for the inspection and approval or rejection of motion picture films and levying a penalty against those who fail to abide by the condition of the law; exempting soldiers, sailors and marines from the payment of poll taxes (several bills); providing for the development of river fronts, terminals and ports; appropriating fifty thousand dollars for the continuation of construction work on the Girls' Training School at Birmingham; to permit the manufacture and sale of non-alcoholic cereal beverages and levying licenses on manufacturers and dealers; to authorize suits against unincorporated associations such as labor unions; to extend the convict lease system until January 1, 1924; to enable cities and towns to obtain supplies of pure water; to provide that members of the supreme court shall give opinions on the validity of acts to the governor and legislature before their passage; to provide for the substitution of tax records when they have been lost or stolen; to provide for the deposit and safe keeping of county funds; to amend the law so as to permit a second change of venue in cases where a fair trial cannot be obtained after the first change of venue has been granted; to provide penalties against circuit and other trial judges who fail to file reports giving their views of cases in which sentences of five years or more are imposed.

Representative J. Lee Long raised a point that the legislature had not been properly called in a resolution which he introduced and had referred to the judiciary committee. He insisted that the law required the filling of vacancies before the legislature convened, but that no effort was made to fill positions vacated in six counties by death or resignation.

Mr. Long offered a resolution proposing an adjournment of the legislature until the third Monday in November in order that the vacancies could be filled at the November election. He said he had been informed by several lawyers well versed in constitutional law, among them Senator R. B. Evans of Hale, that there is grave doubt of the validity of any

FOLLOWING THRU WITH MIGHTY SON OF SWAT SHOWS DANGER FOR THE OPPOSING HURLERS

Just what will be the feeling of the opposing pitchers when Babe Ruth, Sultan of Swat, faces them in the world series is hard to say, especially if the bases are filled; but if you have a good imagination now is the time to put it to use. They might succeed in speaking a couple of strikes over on Bambino, but with the big one left, Ruth takes a toe hold in the ground with his cleated shoes, clinches his jaw and attempts to murder the next ball that is anywhere near the plate. Above are four different poses of Ruth, showing him at the beginning of his mighty swing and carrying it through. The illustration also shows his hard grip on the bat and his keen eyes.

STOCKHOLDERS AND FANS WILL DISCUSS FRANCHISE TONIGHT

Stockholders in the Albany-Decatur baseball club and interested fans will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the rooms of the Albany chamber of commerce to discuss the fate of the local franchise. Charles Rountree, president of the local club, who called the meeting, urged the attendance of all fans interested in the continuation of professional baseball in the two cities.

President Rountree announced several days ago that he had been informed that an offer would be made for the franchise on behalf of individuals. The stock now is held by a large number of local fans.

PLANS DISCUSSED FOR CELEBRATION

Delegates from several fraternal organizations which will cooperate with the Central Labor Union in the disarmament celebration here Armistice Day, met with the committee from the Central Labor Union at its regular meeting last night.

Plans were discussed at length for the celebration and the affair rapidly is taking shape. Members of the committee reported. At a meeting to be held next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in Carmen's Hall it was expected the plans will be finally completed.

A number of prominent speakers have been obtained for the occasion and an interesting program will be rendered. The celebrations will be staged in all parts of the nation, marking the opening in Washington of the disarmament conference.

Phone Company New Equipment

The Telephone company is installing and reorganizing some equipment at local headquarters which will of necessity interrupt for short periods the usual good service. These interruptions will ordinarily be for a few seconds only and the public will no doubt be glad to extend courtesy to the company until such time as installations are complete which will probably be only for a few days, when the usual service will be resumed. The above announcement was made today by J. B. Cassels, district manager.

Strikers Smash Plates and Pour Soup on Guests

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Oct. 5.—Disorders broke out today in the waiters' strike. Strikers invaded public dining rooms where strike breakers were at work, smashing dishes and mirrors and pouring soup over the guests. The hotels have notified the government that new quarters must be found for the allied mission as they are without service to attend the commissioner's needs.

PRESIDENT HARDING MAY HURRY SOLONS BY PERSONAL VISIT

SENATE QUITS EARLY TO VISIT THE HOUSE
LEGAL ATTACKS ON PRESENT LAWS BEGUN

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—President Harding is considering a trip to the capital to put his shoulders to the wheels of congress in an effort to speed up the legislative machinery it was learned at the white house today.

Rumors of widespread dissatisfaction because of slow movements by congress have reached the President and he has been advised by some of the high officials in his administration to appear before congress and deliver a speech urging expedition in matters of legislation.

The President wishes the railroad refunding bill passed quickly inasmuch as this is the one legislative measure which is regarded as the government contribution to the solution of the unemployment problem. The railroads are pressing the administration for passage of this bill and administration officials have warned the President that unless it is enacted and the government permitted to extend credit to the railroads that aid provided by the bill may come too late to be of the greatest value either to the railroads or to the unemployed.

SECRET DIPLOMACY BALKED BY LEAGUE AFTER WARM FIGHT

(International News Service)
GENEVA, Oct. 5.—An attempt to introduce secret diplomacy into the League of Nations was balked in the assembly today. A resolution had been offered to amend Article 18, making it unnecessary to register all international agreements with the League secretariat, but the assembly after hot debate deferred action until 1923.

The fight against the resolution was led by Lord Robert Cecil, of Great Britain. Article 18 was drawn by ex-President Woodrow Wilson and was specifically aimed at secret diplomacy. A determined fight was made against the article many of the speakers calling it too drastic. The orators, however, praised the lofty ideals which had inspired Mr. Wilson to insist upon the article in question. The resolution, if it had been adopted, would have amended Article 18 to say that it was not necessary to register agreements of a technical nature.

Lord Cecil argued that nations might conclude military agreements were "technical". The British delegate urged that if a compromise were deemed necessary it might be arranged to have all international treaties presented to the new international court to determine if they should be registered with the secretariat.

Two Continue to Assert Innocence

(International News Service)
FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Oct. 5.—Under the direction of Governor Davis steps are being taken today to round up evidence which is expected to ascertain the identity of the perpetrators of the horrible murder of Mrs. Margaret Eastlake, whose mutilated body was found last Friday morning at Colonial Beach, Va. Finger prints of Eastlake, husband of the dead woman, and Miss Sarah Knox, his alleged affiant, held for the crime, have been taken. Both maintained their innocence. All fear of attempted lynching of the prisoners is at an end, the police believe and the prisoners will remain in the Fredericksburg jail instead of being removed to Richmond. Counsel for both the prosecution and the defense now are busily engaged in collecting evidence for the legal battle that will start late this month.

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Oct. 5. An azure cloud flecked sky, a fairly warm sun and a capacity crowd of some 40,000 baseball fans greeted the Giants and Yankees here this afternoon when they lined up for the first game of the all-New York world series.

At exactly 9:47 a. m. the turnstiles began to revolve at the bleacher entrance and scores of the numb fans, who had stood in line throughout the chilly night, were engaged in foot-races to restore their blood circulation and to snatch the choicest seats in the sunny section which was by far the most comfortable today.

Twenty minutes later the waiting line on the speedway began to writhe along as the back door of the Polo Grounds was opened to accommodate the $3 customers in the upper deck of the huge grandstand. The police estimated there were 3,000 fans in line at the bleacher entrance when the sale of admissions began.

The Giants and Yankee players drifted in by pairs and groups, some arriving as early as ten o'clock. They immediately sought the seclusion of their clubhouses and it was after 12 o'clock before the field was occupied by any of the performers in the big outdoor drama.

McGraw's men were the first to arrive on the field. They entered the park at 12:25 o'clock and their appearance was the signal for a big ovation from the crowd. They walked onto the field in a business like and leisurely manner. To look at them one might think they were going to an everyday ball game. This is the sixth world series into which McGraw, veteran leader of the Giants, has piloted his men since he took charge of the team.

He has won but one championship flag, that of 1905. It was the first world series for Miller Huggins and his Yankees. The Yankees formed as a baseball club in 1903 won their first American league pennant this year. The Yankees were the favorites by a slight margin as the series opened.

The Yankees, on account of their terrific hitting ability, have swung opinion to their side. Babe Ruth was expected to be the outstanding figure in today's game. Ruth, with a new home run record of 59 circuit swats in a single season, was the logical candidate for the role of world series hero.

Betting was at even money for the most part, except for a few wagers and freak bets among radical partisans of the rival teams. It did not require the double attraction of two home clubs in a big money series to keep the fans up all night before the first game.

As early as yesterday afternoon the entrance to the grounds was cluttered up by restless crowds of men, boys and women. They came early to gaze at the Giants and Yankees, who slipped out in pairs and groups after their final practice.

When night fell and the chill of a crisp October evening settled over the Polo Grounds these fans were still there. The first one of the chilly all-nighters was Charles Kierst, of Auburn, N. Y., a Giant rooter. He camped at the entrance to the Polo Grounds at ten o'clock yesterday morning and remained there until the gates opened today. All long distance honors went to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Eldridge, who journeyed all the way from Raton, New Mexico, to see the big game. The couple arrived at the speedway entrance to the park at sun-up and camped on a convenient rock, waiting for the ticket office to open. At 1:30 o'clock the Giants took the field to warm up for the game with Hughey Jennings batting to the

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Duel Bess Dean and Madge Gaily Fought.

MY little feeling of triumph over Bess Dean because of Dicky's apparent indifference to her comfort was intensified by the quick gleam of disappointment which shot from her eyes when he requested me to drive them over to the hotel for her luggage. She was too good an actress to make any outward objection to the arrangement, and I, on my part, was determined that she should not think I had the slightest objection to her taking the short motor trip alone with Dicky in his new car. I assumed the authoritative conjugal air which is the prerogative of a wife past the bride stage, and spoke with an extra dash of perspicacity.

"Of all the indolent masculine creatures in this wide world! Bess, he simply is too lazy to get out his new car. But I'll not let him get away with anything like that. See here, Friend Husband, just run out that new beauty and give Bess a little spin in it. You'll have time to go down to the five-acre bridge and the high bridge before dinner, and pick up her luggage besides. And I really ought not to take the time to go this morning. I've neglected my morning to go fishing with this little lord of mine until there isn't a button on Junior's rompers, and my husband's clothing is disreputable."

I was rewarded for the effort with which I got out this speech by seeing a look of impatience on Dicky's face and a gleam of distinct respect in Bess Dean's eyes. That she gauged exactly my true feeling toward her was sure, for I recognized at their full worth her keenness of perception and her intuition.

"You Never Can Tell—" "Yes, I knew, also, that in any contest, it was the seat of the game the keener. And that there was a definite gauge of battle between us, the prize the avenging of her vanity for the old thrust I had given it, or a new wound, we both by this time understood, all the more clearly because it was an understanding that could not be spoken, but ran like a compelling undertow beneath the apparently placid current of our intercourse.

"What a model wife!" she glibbed. "Yes, she listens like the original patient Griselda, doesn't she?" Dicky retorted. "Ordering me around as if I were a slave. Indeed, I don't think she'd dare to speak to any one else but of voice. But I'm tamed. She can leave me without hitching anywhere, and I jump at the crack of the whip just as I'm doing now. Just stay here and I'll show you the nicest car—but don't take any stock in that mending tale of Madge's. She'll be pounding her ear in the hammock when we get back, dead to the world. I never saw anybody sleep so much in my life as—"

His voice died away as he gazed at her.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble TUESDAY, OCT. 4

The astrological outlook for this day is not to be read as favorable. There may be business perplexities and worries, possibly caused by treachery or duplicity. New projects may be jeopardized by these and the danger of fraud. The risking of money by speculation is warned against. Those in the employment of others must be cautious. Attend strictly to business, with open eyes, and no ill can befall. Those whose birthday it is are urged to be cautious in all their dealings lest they suffer through fraud or treachery. They should not risk their money nor speculate. Those in the employment of others should be careful. A child born on this day should be fitted to meet the obstacles and setbacks of life, as it may have many ups and downs to contend with. It will have natural good judgment, however, to meet these.

Doughty Pickax Passes.

In the hands of lazy laborers the pickax becomes the irritation, despair or agent of humor of the average observant man. Symbol of toil, properly speaking, shirkers have turned it into mockery of labor because of the carefully calculated leisure with which they swung it. By their methods these canny clock watchers changed the pickax into a visible sign of leisure.

But without knowing it these leisurely pickax wielders were working a change of great importance. They were attracting the attention of men whose business it is in life to see that work is done promptly, efficiently and economically. From these men has come the air hammer or air pick. In its street work a New York company has used one of these new implements with a gasoline engine and air compressors mounted on a large motor truck behind it. Where 15 men were hired to do the street job three are enough to do the work with this instrument. —New York Herald.

COTTON MARKET OFFERINGS SLOW

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Offerings were liberal at the opening of the cotton market today and prices dropped 7 to 80 points on first sales. There was further pressure from the South and offerings from Liverpool. The demand came mainly from shorts and operators who were replacing sales made at higher prices.

At the end of the first 15 minutes nervousness was in evidence and the list was about 80 points net lower.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Discusses Some Style Tendencies in a Sm

THE other morning I had occasion to walk down the avenue at an hour when many of the best-dressed women promenade the famous thoroughfare. Ruth Bayless accompanied me, and as she is studying costume design at one of the well-known schools, she was just as interested in noting new style ideas as I was.

As we approached the entrance to one of the exclusive shops, Ruth suddenly said:

"That's the sort of suit I'd like to have if I were rich."

"Which do you mean?" I asked, for just at that moment two particularly well-dressed women were greeting each other in the doorway of this shop.

"I mean the one with the dashing waistcoat," answered Ruth, as we slackened our pace so we might take in some of the fashion features of those models.

"Why, Ruth," I replied, "you must have changed your ideas of dress, for that's quite an elaborate creation."

"Oh, no," she replied with a provoking smile. "I said I should like it if I were rich."

"Well, what's the idea?" I questioned. "I mean, what's the idea?"

"Well, what's the idea?" I questioned. "I mean, what's the idea?"

Carolina Lady Got So She Could Just Drag. "Cardui Built Me Up," She Declares.

Kernersville, N. C.—In an interesting statement regarding Cardui, the Woman's Tonic, Mrs. Wesley Mabe, of near here, recently said: "I have known Cardui for years, but never knew its worth until a year or so ago. I was in a weakened, run-down condition. I became draggy—didn't eat or sleep to do any good; couldn't do anything without a great effort. I tried different remedies and medicines, yet I continued to drag.

"I decided to give Cardui a trial, and found it was just what I really needed. It made me feel much stronger soon after I began to use it. I began to eat more, and the nervous, weak feeling began to leave. Soon I was sleeping good.

"Cardui built me up as no other tonic ever did.

"I used Cardui with one daughter who was puny, felt bad and tired out all the time. It brought her right out, and soon she was as well as a girl could be. We think there is nothing like Cardui."

Do not allow yourself to become weak and run-down from womanly troubles. Take Cardui. You may find it just what you really need. For more than 40 years it has been used by thousands and thousands, and found just as Mrs. Mabe describes.

Little Stories of Men and Women Whose Sayings Are Still Remembered

By MARK STUYVESANT

The Way Bishop Whipple Helped Examine an Indian.

FOR two score years Henry Benjamin Whipple lived in one community in Minnesota, and, as a bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, labored among his beloved Indians. Indeed, to know him best one had to see him among the Indians who loved him and followed his leadership so gladly. An instance of Bishop Whipple's understanding way with his Indian parishioners.

The Bishop Confides.

erq is told by the Rev. Dr. Charles Lewis Slattery, who then was one of Bishop Whipple's aids.

Dr. Slattery was asked to examine an Indian for deacon's orders. The bishop was a bit nervous about what the examiner might ask his beloved Indian, so he contrived to meet Dr. Slattery in the hall and to tell him that the candidate had been excused from G. O. C.

"And remember," added the bishop, "that he is an Indian. You must ask the questions simply."

The examiner promised he would remember, but the bishop still was nervous, and asked if he might be with him at the examination. The bishop sat close beside the examiner while he asked the Indian simple questions. But there came a look of dismay over the Indian's face. It was when he was asked:

"How does the Epistle of St. James differ from the other epistles in the New Testament?"

A long silence was ended by the bishop saying:

"You don't quite know how to put questions to an Indian. Do you mind if I ask him?"

Stammering, the examiner said he would be delighted if the bishop would ask that question the way it should be put to an Indian. With a radiant smile the bishop turned to the Indian and said:

"Now, John, St. James doesn't tell you what you ought to think; he tells you what you ought to do. Now, doesn't he, John?"

After an instant of hesitation there came the reply with fine Indian dignity:

"Yes, sir."

"You see," the bishop's kindly face was aglow with pride in John, "he understands perfectly."

Oddly enough—or was it due to his long association with the Indians?—Bishop Whipple adored bright colors, and liked to wear them. But his wife sometimes exercised a benign censorship upon his apparel, especially on occasions when formal dress should be worn. One evening, coming downstairs for inspection before a reception, the bishop's wife looked at him with approval until her eyes lighted on his feet. Above the shining low shoes were red stockings of the most brilliant hue.

At his wife's request the bishop suddenly started to go upstairs to change the red socks for black ones. But before he went he managed, with a final triumph, to whisper to a friend:

"I have on a pair of black stockings, thank you."

Fire Chief Sorber Granted Leave to Attend Atlanta Convention

The Albany city council will meet in special session Thursday night to take up for special consideration the petition of the school board for an election on November 22 to authorize the issuance of bonds totalling $250,000 for the construction of a new high school and improvement of present buildings. The call for the special meeting was made following receipt of the petition last night at the regular session of the council. The petition was referred to Chairman Williams. At the Thursday night meeting City Attorney Tennis Tidwell will have the information regarding the necessary steps to be taken by the municipal authorities.

Another request was received from the school board requesting the council to help the board in liquidating the school debt of $8,000 last year. Aid in the sum of $5,000 was asked, but the request was referred to the finance committee.

The council passed the ordinance raising the fines for drunkenness to the following schedule: Plain drunk $25; drunk and disorderly $50; driving automobile while intoxicated $90. A penalty of six months on the streets also may be added.

Ordinance 389 regulating the tax levy for the next year, an ordinance passed each year, was adopted last night.

Alderman Buck requested and received a leave of absence for Fire Chief Sorber in order that the latter may attend the fire chiefs convention in Atlanta.

SET HARD TASK FOR ARTIST

Chinese Demand Absolutely Perfect Work From Man Entrusted With the Carving of Jade.

The high standing of jade is no modern thing. The primitive weights and measures of the Chinese world were computed from jade tubes, and the earliest bars or intervals of music known to that nation were determined by hollow bamboo canes of accurate length, afterward made in jade tubes having stops within to be pulled out at the will of the player.

The Spaniards and the Mexicans have as great respect for the stone as the Chinese, and they make great use of it. The Chinese value their jade carvings so highly that they cannot often be prevailed upon to part with them.

When an unusually large piece of jade is found in China, there is called a council of artists to determine into what shape it had best be carved, as, owing to its extreme hardness, the form selected must follow somewhat the outline indicated by the natural formation of the specimen.

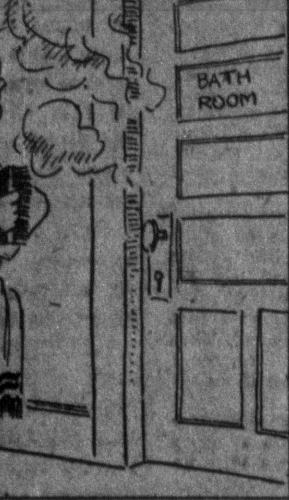

The artist chosen to perform the delicate task is not altogether to be envied. It is true that if he succeeds he will be highly honored and rewarded, but success depends upon his work being approved after it has been subjected to public criticism for a whole year. If, at the end of that time, his work should be condemned, his reputation as an artist is irretrievably lost.

The task itself is no light one. With a thin piece of finely tempered brass wire, the artist may work for a week without having anything to show. Twenty years have not been considered too long for a single piece of carving.

In the Tanana Valley, Alaska, though the rainfall is very light, crops draw ample moisture from the melting of subterranean ice for the first few years after the land is first cultivated. Eventually the ice recedes to such a depth that it no longer supplies the plants with water.

How to Build for True Beauty With Well-Planned Exercises

By LUREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

UNDoubtedly the most valuable aid to the preservation of beauty is exercise. It should, of course, be taken regularly if you would secure all the benefits from it that you desire. However, when cool weather arrives many women prefer to sit around at home and read or sew than to indulge in the sports they enjoyed in summer days.

They depend on radiators or open fires to keep them warm, when they could readily increase their circulation in a more healthful manner if they would exercise. Should they live in sections of the country where summer temperature prevails even when the calendar announces the return of winter, they avoid exercise, "because of the heat," or just because "it isn't done." This, too, is foolish, for lacking the energy to exercise they often take the risk of giving up their good looks.

Women who work sometimes imagine their daily walk to and from the course, you want to retain it for many a day. A splendid exercise for developing your chest is to hold your hands straight in front of you. Stretch your arm muscles as much as you can. Next, sweep your arms slowly to your sides as though you were swimming, remembering always to keep them on the level of your shoulders.

By and by you may feel your muscles slightly strained. When this point is reached you must count five, and at the same time inhale deeply and slowly. When you exhale count five, and if your lungs are not thoroughly emptied a few seconds more may still be required. This is an admirable exercise for improving your figure and also is decidedly beneficial as a lung expander.

You can also develop your chest by clasping your hands tightly above your head, and keeping your elbows stiff as you breathe very slowly and deeply for ten or even twenty seconds.

If you do not feel equal to your daily walk you should keep your body supple office or factory is quite sufficient to keep them in good condition. But this is not so. Of course, one cannot be expected to feel eager for home exercise on returning from a day's work.

Therefore, the morning is usually the best time to exercise. When you arise you should certainly feel refreshed. This is the time to devote a few minutes to exercising if you would retain your youthful figure and acquire poise.

It isn't necessary to indulge in elaborate exercises that require expensive appliances. These are all right for the gymnasium, and you are fortunate if you can avail yourself of them. But you need not be discouraged if you can exercise only at home. You will get just as good results if you will make out a little plan for yourself and work on schedule.

Remember all the time that such exercises will improve your beauty, and, of by doing the following exercises:

Lie flat on your back on the floor. If you wish a softer resting place you can lie on a blanket. Now try slowly to rise to a sitting position without aiding yourself by your hands. They should fall loosely at your sides.

After you have repeated this exercise several times until you feel that you have gained some control of your muscles, you should turn over on your stomach. Now you may use your hands until you have risen to a kneeling position. You will find this exercise well suited to the reduction of the superfluous fat that so often renders the hips too prominent.

Remember, it is the systematic doing of such exercises every day that will eventually show full results. By devoting ten minutes every morning to exercising you will feel well set up for your day's work wherever it may be.

TENNESSEE VALLEY RANKS THIRD OVER STATE ON CONDITION OF THE COTTON CROP

Better Than Average is the Crop in Northern Tiers of Counties

ACRE YIELD NEARLY AS GOOD AS LAST YEAR

Dry Weather Declared to Have Kept the Weevil Damage Down

By F. W. GIST

The condition of 46 for cotton in Alabama, found by the crop reporting board of the United States Department of Agriculture as of September 25, represents but little more than the normal deterioration for the last period of the season, and practically confirms the forecast of a month ago, amounting to 465,000 bales. In the meantime the census came out with a very large ginning report for this date, amounting to 229,927 bales. With the exception of 1918 this is the largest ginning to this date since the weevil began to spread over the State. The 1918 figures constituted 33 per cent of the crop of that year. If the present forecast turns out to be correct it will transpire that practically half this crop was ginned to September 25. Unofficial reports from the south half of the State are to the effect that at least 75 per cent of the crop is ginned, while in the north half it is said to be at least one-third ginned.

The Alabama condition indicates an acre yield of 110 pounds, which is but one pound less than the yield finally determined for last year. While much less fertilizer was used this year and the weevil were more numerous to start with, the very dry weather has apparently kept weevil damage down and the acre yield in prospect is therefore nearly as good as last year.

Following are the condition figures found by this office for the various sections of the State:

Northwest	47
Tennessee Valley	50
Mineral	47
Northeast	47
Blackbelt west	40
Blackbelt east	49
East central	44
Southwest	54
South Central	56
Southeast	47

Legislature is Getting Down to Its Active Work

acts of the legislature because of this omission. He said his only reason for proposing the resolution was to make sure that the acts of the legislature would be legal. The judiciary committee will make an investigation.

Representative A. S. Van deGraaff of Tuscaloosa offered a resolution declaring the seat of his colleague, H. T. Burks, vacant on the ground that Mr. Burks was a member of the board of revenue of Tuscaloosa county and not eligible. Mr. Van deGraaff offered the same resolution last year but it was not acted upon. Mr. Burks is ill at his home in Tuscaloosa county and cannot attend.

Breaking previous records the Senate of Alabama, on the first day of the 1921 special session Tuesday, actually worked less than two hours and recessed until 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, following the introduction of leading administration measures. After being organized the Senators loafed the biggest part of the time, visiting the House of Representatives, where a battle was started over the legality of the chief executive's call for the special session.

Fewer spectators were in the galleries of the Senate than appeared at the last special session, or the regular session of 1919, although across in the House galleries there were many visitors.

The only thing happening in the senate to indicate sensational results was the introduction of a resolution by Senator R. B. Evins of Hale county, asking for sine die adjournment of the legislature until vacancies in the House can be filled by special elections. Senator Evins, himself a constitutional lawyer, told the Senate that it was no his desire to delay legislation, to throw any obstacles in the way but that it was his opinion the legislature is not legally in session, because of vacancies existing in the House. The resolution was referred to the committee on rules, and it is expected a report will be made on it when the Senate meets again Wednesday afternoon.

The cereal beverage bill was thrown into the "legislative hopper," and was referred by Presiding Officer Nathan L. Miller to the Temperance committee. There was laughter when Senator Archie Carmichael of Colbert county, recognized as one of the original prohibition workers in Alabama, introduced the beverage bill. Other administration measures received their reading, and were referred to proper committees.

The Senate side of the legislature met at 12:15 o'clock, and heard a prayer by Rev. J. O. Volley, of Montgomery. The minister asked for the guidance of the lawmakers, by the Almighty God, during the session. Twenty-seven answered present in the Senate, but at the afternoon session two others arrived and took part in the deliberations.

Introduction of bills at the afternoon session was interrupted by the receipt of information the governor was ready to present his message. On motion of Senator W. P. Acker reading of the message was dispensed with, and 1,000 copies were ordered printed.

Senate committees will meet early Wednesday morning to discuss bills introduced during the first day, and it is probable reports will be ready when the Senate meets again. The Wednesday session probably will be limited to about an hour. No bills can get on the calendar until the third legislative day, and the session Wednesday is held primarily to receive committee reports.

Whose fault is it when your husband is cross at breakfast?

If you hit your thumb with a hammer you wouldn't blame your thumb for hurting.

Then why blame your husband whose nerves may have been pounded by coffee, and whose rest probably has been broken by the irritation of the caffeine it contains?

If you stay awake half the night you don't feel any too cheerful.

The caffeine of coffee and the them of tea are known drugs. If their use is persisted in, sooner or later the nervous system may give way.

Then you may have insomnia, or disturbed sleep. Your nerves and tissues will be robbed of that stability essential for normal and happy living.

You can avoid this possibility if you'll stop drinking tea and coffee and drink instead, rich, pleasing Postum.

Postum is the delicious cereal beverage with a coffee-like flavor. It affords the advantages of a hot drink, without the ill effects of tea or coffee.

Order Postum from your grocer today. Try it with the family for a few days, and see what a difference there'll be—how it will permit Nature to bring sound sleep and strong, sturdy, quiet nerves. Sold by grocers.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.
